AUTO STRIKES BRIDGE; ONE DEAD

XENIA COLORED MAN DIES INSTANTLY IN ACCIDENT ON PIKE

Three Others Hurt;
John Mims Victim
Of Crash

John Mims, about 26, colored, E. Market St., was fatally injured and three other colored persons, including two women, were bruised and shaken when a roadster driven by Mims crashed into the Caesarscreek bridge on the Wilmington Pike, five miles from Xenia, and upset at 2:45 o'clock Friday morning. Mims was killed instantly. His skull was crushed and his left arm broken. His wife, Irene, suffered no broken bones but was so badly shaken that her condition is considered serious. Ellis Jones, James-town Pike, owner of the car, and another unidentified woman occupant escaped with minor bruises and scratches.

The roadster, according to information obtained by Sheriff Ohmer Tate, was being driven at a high rate of speed and failed to negotiate a sharp turn in the highway at the bridge spanning Caesarscreek.

The machine smashed into one side of the bridge, careened to the other side, bounced back and up, and authorities were told.

Dr. R. R. McCallan, Sheriff Ohmer Tate and L. A. Davis, county road patrolman, were summoned to the scene of the accident. The body of Mims was removed to the undertaking parlors of J. C. Johnson, funeral director, while his wife is recuperating at a neighbor's home on E. Market St.

Pending word from Mr. and Mrs. Burrell B. Mims, Winchester, Ky., parents of the crash victim, who were notified of their son's death, funeral services for Mims will not be arranged.

GUNMEN WOUND WOMAN VICTIM

Shot When Resisting
Daring Holdup

CLEVELAND, Sept. 26.—Mrs. Elizabeth Koscin, 35, was shot and seriously wounded here today by two gunmen who staged a daring holdup of the restaurant owned by the woman.

Miss Mary Russo, a waitress, was choked and beaten by the robbers before they fled with an undetermined amount of loot from the cash register.

Mrs. Koscin was shot when she struggled with one of the bandits as they rifled the cash drawer. She was rushed to St. John's Hospital where it was found the bullet had entered her body below the right shoulder.

The bandits fled from the scene on foot. Police radio squads were rushed immediately to the restaurant. They scoured the neighborhood but were unable to find any trace of the two gunmen.

Self-Styled King Of Poland Peeved At Reception; Ponders In Hospital

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The self-styled king of Poland is in Gallinger Hospital today where the many interesting facets of his complex character will be observed by psychiatrists.

Jan Sytul, 35, the so-called king, is a Pole who is good and tired of America. Yesterday he paid an informal visit to the Polish legation to see about getting a passport back to his native land.

Tastefully attired in a uniform of cheery Cerulean hue and nibbling with gusto a large hunk of bologna sausage, Jan rang the bell of the legation building. He told the butler who opened the door:

"Why do you not bow, valet? Don't you know a king when you see one?"

He was conducted to the presence of Stanislaw Lepkowski, charge d'affaires. On the collar of his elaborate blue tunic were the Polish eagle and the letters "K. P." which he said signified "King of Poland." Lepkowski didn't like the looks of things at all, especially when Jan launched into a tirade against the United States. Police were called and Jan was escorted to the hospital for mental observation.

TWO OHIOANS MISSING ON MYSTERIOUS FLIGHT

CLEVELAND, Sept. 26.—An intensive search over land and water was to be started today for Willard Parker, a wartime pilot, and William McNulty, Columbus business man, who have been missing since 1:30 a. m., Wednesday when they took off from Cleveland airport on a "mystery" flight, presumably for Buffalo.

The hunt for the missing craft was to be concentrated over Lake Erie and between here and Mifflinburg, Pa. Although the exact destination of Parker and McNulty is not known, it was recalled at the airport here that they headed toward Mifflinburg. Airport officials regarded it as possible, however, that the missing flyers may have

EUROPEAN POLITICS APPEARS MOVING TO NEW FASCIST STATE

Bolshevism, Fascism And Democracy In Death Battle

By OTTO D. TOLISCHUS
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright 1931 By International News Service)

BERLIN, Sept. 26.—A new political and economic constellation of nations, successor to the helmeted, sabre-rattling alliances which served the old militaristic balance of power in Europe, was foreseen today as gradually emerging from the welter and confusion of European politics.

The spectacular German swing to Fascism, the overthrow of the Austrian cabinet by similar extremist events here and the ponderous but swift-moving orientation of continental political and economic events have thrown into sharp relief this outline of a new alignment, conceived along radically different theories from the old secret alliances, thrown into the discard along with thrones and monarchies at the end of the World War.

Everywhere there is unrest among the masses and a growing tide of Nationalism. But while many of these peoples are blindly groping toward some unseen end, in Europe itself a well-defined "triple spit" is appearing.

In the east, Bolshevism is trying to maintain itself as a huge Russian empire at the expense of vast present human misery and mass executions.

In the west, democracy is trying to hold its own.

Between the two, there seemingly is arising a cordon of Fascist states, welded not by military or political alliances but by a striving for a common aim. Italy, Austria, Germany and Hungary, are waging an economic battle against Bolshevism and Socialism, and political warfare against western democracies.

The Fascist "bloc," still in more or less a chimerical stage, consists of the nations defeated in the World War plus those which feel themselves "cheated of victory."

Hardest hit by the economic crisis now gripping the world, they feel their only hope lies in revision of the Versailles treaty and the re-allocation of war costs in a more equitable way.

In rather strenuous terms, perhaps, Adolf Hitler expounded the revisionist theory in the supreme court at Leipzig yesterday, during the trial of three Reichswehr officers charged with high treason for alleged dissemination of Fascist propaganda.

JESS SWEETSER AND BOBBY JONES MEET AFTER EIGHT YEARS

(Bulletin)
MERION CRICKET CLUB, Ardmore, Pa., Sept. 26.—Bobby Jones went into the final round of the National Amateur golf championship giving Sweetser, former British amateur champion, the licking of his career this afternoon. He beat Sweetser by 9 up and 8 to play and not for one moment after he sank a fifteen-foot putt for a birdie on the first hole was Jones' lead in question.

LONGER THE EASIER

NEW LEXINGTON, O., Sept. 26.—If you reach the age of 60 you have a better chance to live to be 80 or even 100. So say cemetery officials here who recently made a check of the tombstones in New Lexington cemeteries.

Inscriptions and data on the many monuments, officials declared, show that the death rate before reaching the age of 60 is per cent as again 30 per cent from 60 to 100.

AMENDMENTS TO AIR TRAFFIC RULES ARE BEING CONSIDERED

Aircraft Owners And Makers Meet At Washington

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Proposed amendments to air traffic rules, airworthiness requirements and other aeronautical regulations were discussed at the commerce department today by about 100 aircraft manufacturers, owners and operators, who met in annual conference with Assistant Secretary of Commerce Clarence M. Young, and other officials.

Young said that the airworthiness requirements were of great importance to the industry, although considerable attention was given to amendments to the air commerce regulations. He added:

"The amendments proposed have a general tendency to cover the many phases of aircraft engineering that have developed during the past year and are intended, in the main, to bring about greater safety and reliability in aircraft design and construction."

"Among the subjects discussed were the performance requirements for flying boats and regulations dealing with gliders, propellers and low-powered aircraft."

Most of the important aircraft manufacturers and air transport operators were present.

HELPLESS CRUISER IS ADRIFT

LONDON, Sept. 26.—The British cruiser Conquest, consigned to the junkyard under the terms of the London naval treaty, broke away from a tug in the North Sea today off Flamborough Head while en route to a shipbreaking yard.

The decommissioned cruiser, with only a skeleton crew of six men aboard, lurched away from her convey in the grip of a strong tide and was soon lost to sight.

Naval vessels and tugs immediately instituted a search for the drifting cruiser, which constitutes a dangerous menace to shipping. With her dynamo and all other salvable parts removed before the last journey to the wreckers began, the ship is completely out of control.

CHICAGO GANG KILLS VICTIM

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Gangland enemies today executed Alex Scully, west side hoodlum, hurling his body from an automobile in front of University Hospital where it was found by Mrs. Daisy Bothford, night supervising nurse.

Scully had been shot above the heart from close range, the powder burning his clothing. He had been shot with a .45 caliber revolver, according to police.

The nurse, hearing an automobile draw up before the hospital, ran out to find Scully's body lying in the gutter. She immediately called police who identified the victim from fingerprints. Scully used the alias of Patsy Garline and had a police record.

VACANT COLLEGE BUILDING BURNS

CARROLLTON, O., Sept. 26.—Fire which is believed to have originated from the lighting plant in the basement today had completely destroyed the abandoned Harlem Springs College building here and had caused an estimated loss of $25,000.

Both the Carrollton and Amsterdam fire departments ignored the blaze because, due to the recent drought, there was no water available.

WELFARE ADVISORY COMMISSION URGES NEW STATE PRISONS

Plans To Eliminate Overcrowding Are Suggested

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 25.—Recommendations that no Ohio penal institution house more than 1,200 persons at one time, that the Grafton State Farm be developed into a new state penal institution within the next two years, and that another correctional institution be built by the state within the next biennium are contained in the preliminary report of Governor Myers V. Cooper's welfare advisory commission. The report is on file today with the governor.

Recommendations relative to conditions at the various state hospitals will be embodied in another report to be submitted by the commission to Governor Cooper at a later date.

In its present reports, the commission insists that the Ohio legislature this winter should make provision for enlarging the facilities of the state's prisons and reformatories.

If it is found necessary to keep more than 1,300 prisoners at the London prison farm, the commission advised that a wall be built around at least a portion of the buildings there. The commission, however, recommended that the farm be maintained as a reformatory with a normal population of 1300.

Other recommendations for enlargement and betterment of physical facilities at the state's penal and correctional institutions include:

Build additional dormitory units outside the walls of the Mansfield state reformatory, to relieve overcrowding; develop prison industries and farms as much as possible; eliminate fire hazards at the boys' industrial school, Lancaster, and the girls' industrial school, Delaware; erect a new cottage at the boys' industrial school and build new cottages, when needed to replace present units, all new cottages to be limited to a capacity of thirty inmates each; buy such additional land as may be needed for agricultural purposes at the girls' industrial school.

The Ohio prison population, the commission estimated, will be 16,672 by 1940. Last year it was 8,222 compared with 3,619 in 1920.

Appointed by the governor soon after the Ohio penitentiary holocaust last spring, the commission is co-operating with Governor Cooper, Hal H. Griswold, state welfare director, and other state officials in the preparation of plans, on a ten-year basis, designed to eliminate overcrowding and fire hazards, improve sanitary conditions and otherwise better the environment at the state's penal and correctional institutions and hospitals.

The commission comprises Julius F. Stone, Columbus, chairman; A. E. Anderson, Cincinnati; Dudley S. Blossom, Cleveland; Grove Patterson, Toledo, and Harry McLaughlin, Cleveland.

TWENTY INJURED AS BUS STRIKES TREE

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Sept. 26.—Twenty passengers on a Greyhound bus bound for the South, were injured late last night when the big machine failed to make a sharp curve near Hybla Valley and crashed head-on into a tree.

Norman Dove, Fairfax, Va., the chauffeur, was the most seriously injured. His skull was broken and he was injured internally when the impact forced the huge motor of the bus practically back into his seat.

A motorist who was driving in back of the bus told the authorities he believed Dove was either blinded by the glare of headlights from approaching cars or tried to round the sharp curve at too great a speed.

CLARA SCOLDED BY BOSS?

Paramount Admits "Talking To" Red-Head About
Her Gambling Escapade

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 26.—As the result of her gambling escapade at Calneva, Clara Bow, the flaming-haired film actress, today was reported cogitating over a bit of "friendly advice" given her by officials of the Paramount-Public, the company which holds her contract.

Officers of the motion picture company admitted today that they had talked with Miss Bow since news of her $13,900 difficulty with the Calneva resort became public.

After "bucking the tiger" at Calneva, it is alleged the actress stopped payments on checks amounting to $13,900. She explained that she thought she was playing with fifty-cent pieces, whereas the owners of the resort claim these pieces represented $100 checks.

Although declining to be specific about the sort of advice given to Miss Bow, Henry Herzburn, attorney for the motion picture company, asserted it was about the Calneva episode. He emphatically denied, however, that Miss Bow's contract would be affected by the affair.

Meanwhile, Miss Bow had been forbidden to talk of the affair.

Will Rogers, however, had a few witty remarks to make about the matter in general. He was at Calneva with other members of his company at least some of the time when Miss Bow was wooing dame fortune over the gaming tables.

"Say, if I had lost $13,900," Rogers said, "they would have had to pour all the water in Lake Tahoe over me to bring me to. I wouldn't even be able to write a check."

"I was only with Clara, and her boy friend Rex Bell for a short time. She certainly wasn't reckless when I saw her. When I lost fifty or sixty dollars in a gambling house I back out and tell the house that is my contribution for absorbing the light and heat."

Rogers became rather querulous when he said he "got in a sort of a jam" over the affair.

"My wife and family gave me the horse laugh," he said, "and accused me of going to the bow-wow all of a sudden."

Informing that the owners of Calneva were reported to be contemplating re-producing Miss Bow's checks on postcards and selling them for ten cents each, her attorney, W. I. Gilbert, said if he did so he would advise Clara "to pay postage on every one that is sent out."

MIDDLE WEST FEELS BREATH OF WINTER

PLAYER COLLAPSES

High blood pressure, brought on by fast musical comedy work, is believed responsible for the collapse of Jack Donohue, Broadway favorite and leading man in "Sons O' Guns," while playing in Cincinnati. He was rushed east for treatment.

BEER FLAT MURDER

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 26.—A more vigorous cleanup of the underworld here was being planned by police officials today following the murder of Adolph Krueger, 63, in a beer flat late last night. The murder occurred within thirty-six hours after the newly-reorganized police liquor squad had begun an intensive war against speakeasies and liquor law violators.

Freak Storms Occur; Wyoming Gripped In Snow Drifts

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 26.—Scattered sections of the middle and western states today had received their first touch of winter, due to freak weather conditions.

After leaving snow in Wyoming, western Nebraska and South Dakota and causing severe windstorms in other states, the storm center was moving eastward today, promising lower temperatures for the lake region, according to weather forecasters.

One woman was killed and another injured in a near-cyclone at Metz, Mo., last night. Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma generally were swept by wind, hail and lightning. The dome of the University of Kansas Observatory, at Lawrence, was damaged.

In Iowa, "twisters" struck near Stuart, Albia, Summitville and Ottumwa. Five inches of rain fell at Iowa City. Two men were injured by lightning at Council Bluffs, one perhaps fatally. Airmail schedules were delayed in Nebraska and Iowa.

The Laramie-Saratoga Highway through the mountains in Wyoming was made impassable by three-foot snow drifts on the snowy range.

COUPLE MEETS DEATH IN PACT

MEDINA, O., Sept. 26.—Worry over financial difficulties today was believed to have been the motive for a tragic death pact which resulted in the murder of Luella Immel, 36, and the suicide of her husband Herbie, also 36, of Seale and uncle of Mrs. Immel's to take were found in a woods near Hinkley, ten miles northeast of here, after an all day search Thursday.

The man and wife, who endeavored to rear three children by raising poultry, left a note at their home in Seville requesting a sister and uncle of Mrs. Immel's to care of the children, a girl, 8, and two boys, 10 and 13, with the insurance money which would result from the parents' deaths.

SERIOUS STRIKES MENACING SPAIN

MADRID, Sept. 26.—Serious strikes, alleged by the government to have been engineered by political agitators, spread throughout Spain today.

Wholesale walk-outs were reported from Santiago, Bilbao, Cordoba, Granada, Lerida, Malaga and Bollos. Fears were expressed of a general strike throughout the important industrial district of Galicia in protest against the killing of a number of strikers at Santiago, where the situation is especially serious.

Rigorous censorship was established in Santiago following the shooting incident.

SUBSTANTIAL RATE REDUCTION OFFERS DAYTON SCALE HERE

New Ordinances Are
Read; City Buys
Police Auto

The Dayton Power and Light Co. laid all its cards, face up, on the table before City Commission Thursday night, offering what company officials feel to be a substantial reduction in electric rates for residential as well as commercial and street lighting for the city.

Three ordinances, one asking for a twenty-year franchise granting the company the authority but not the exclusive privilege to furnish electricity for Xenia consumption, another offering a reduced schedule of rates for both commercial and residential lighting, under a five-year contract, and a third, seeking a five-year contract for street lighting at lower rates, were introduced and placed on their first readings by the commission.

The proposed new street lighting contract provides a charge of $21 a year for each 100 candle power lamp; $35 for each 250 C. P. lamp; $43 for each 400 C. P. lamp; and $58 for each 600 C. P. lamp, which constitutes a reduction of $4 a year for each 100 C. P. lamp and $2 a year for each 400 C. P. lamp.

At present the city has a total of 227 street lamps and is paying $8,026 annually for street lighting, which covers $2,400 for ninety-six 100 C. P. lamps, $3,230 for eighty-five 250 C. P. lamps, $1,700 for thirty-four 400 C. P. lamps and $696 for twelve 600 C. P. lamps.

The new proposed schedule for street lighting means an annual saving of $452 from the present expenditure or would enable the city to have twenty-one additional street lights of 100 C. P. lamps installed without additional cost from the present yearly expense, the company points out.

The argument was put forward that the extra twenty-one lights would meet all of the city's demands and needs and the light company officials recalled the fact that a year ago the company gave the city a contract for street lighting which represented a saving of more than $800 over the former contract.

The proposed new schedule for residential light rates offers a reduction of half a cent to eight cents for the first thirty kilowatt hours per month, a cut of 1 1/2 cents to 5 1/2 cents for the next fifty kilowatt hours and a reduction of 1/4 of a cent to 3/4 cents a month for current used in excess of eighty kilowatt hours.

This would place Xenia's rate schedule for domestic consumption exactly on a par with the Dayton residential rates and would make a saving ranging from 9 to

FEDERAL JURY WILL GET LIQUOR CASES

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 26.—The case of Ellis Darany, former Canton police sergeant, Mike Smith and John Gust, who are charged with conspiracy to violate the national prohibition laws in Canton, was expected to be placed in the hands of a jury in federal district court here today.

The government's argument was started before court adjourned yesterday by Marc J. Wolpaw, United States district attorney. He was scheduled to be followed today by the defense attorneys, Howell Leuck and Martin A. McCormick, after which United States Attorney Wilfred J. Mahon will present the final argument.

The defense rested its case yesterday after each of the three defendants took the witness stand and denied the charges against them.

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 26.—Funeral arrangements were being made today for Grover C. Smith, 38, Smith, who was found dead in bed at his home Thursday night, was executive assistant to the city manager. Coroner Fred C. Swing voiced belief that Smith poisoned himself.

Officers said they found a hypodermic needle and poison on the kitchen table. Smith collapsed at his office recently. He left a note which read: "My health is gone. There seems to be no possibility of ever regaining it."

His estranged wife, at Ridgeway, Pa., received a letter from Smith in which he said he was "a coward" and that she would never hear from him again.

UNIFORMED HIGH SCHOOL BAND ASSURED BY PUBLIC SUPPORT

Thanks to donations made by the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs and individual contributions of more than seventy Xenia business men and citizens, brand new uniforms in the school colors of blue and white will be purchased for Xenia Central High School's thirty-piece band, it was announced Thursday.

The Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs each subscribed $100 toward the fund being raised to equip the band with natty uniforms, including capes and caps, and the eighteen members of the high school student council, who canvassed the business district Thursday morning, collected a total of $160, representing contributions of merchants and citizens, in a hasty drive which lasted only an hour and a half.

The thirty uniforms will cost $325. This amount was over-subscribed and the balance of the money raised will be used to buy additional musical instruments and enlarge the band, which is now composed of twenty-six boys and four girls.

The band has been organized under the direction of William Hugh Miller, musical director, who is accorded a large measure of credit in the movement to obtain new uniforms for the organization.

The uniforms will consist of single blue and white capes while the male members of the band will furnish their own white trousers and the girls will wear white skirts. The drum major, for whom a white double cape was purchased three years ago, will also be equipped with a special hat and a baton.

The city-wide canvass for funds Thursday was conducted on an organized basis as each student was assigned by Director Miller to solicit certain people. About forty persons remain to be interviewed and are expected to be seen by the young solicitors within the next day or two in an effort to swell the fund.

For a long time the high school has felt that public interest in school activities has been lacking in Xenia but the generous response to the appeal for funds has driven this idea out of the minds of school officials and students, who desire to acknowledge all contributions to the fund and to express their sincere appreciation.

The following Xenia business firms and citizens in addition to the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs subscribed to the fund:

J. C. Penny, Criterion, Jobe's, Coates Barber Shop, Huston-Blickett, Sohn's Drug Store, Xenia National Bank, Sangers Meats, American Express, Carroll-Binder Co., Xenia Vulcanizing Co., Famous Cheap Store, Jones' Drug Store, James Bros., The Buckeye Press, Bryant Motor Sales, Baldwin Motor Sales, R. ### DAUGHTER OF EX-XENIANS MARRIED IN DAYTON

Of interest to Xenians was the marriage of Miss Mary Katherine Brennan to Mr. Robert W. Payne, Dayton, which was solemnized Thursday morning at 7:30 o'clock at Sacred Heart Church, Dayton. Miss Brennan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Brennan, formerly of this city. Mr. Brennan at one time serving as mayor of Xenia.

The altar of the church, before which the vows were taken, was decorated attractively with palms and anemones, while call baskets of white dahlias and chrysanthemums were used as a contrast against the background of greenery. The Rev. Martin Varley officiated at the service.

Miss Margaret Payne, sister of the bridegroom, was the bride's only attendant. She wore a gown of brown moire, fashioned with a Russian tunic blouse. Her hat was of straw, with a high crown and she carried a tall, black, feathered hat. Mr. Edmund Shea acted as best man for Mr. Payne.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of golden brown taffeta, made with a high waistline with a fitted bodice and the long, full skirt, trimmed in light beige. Her hat and accessories were of beige and her footwear was bronze. She carried an arm bouquet of John's Hill roses.

Following the wedding service a breakfast was served to members of the immediate families at the home of the bride's parents on Central Ave. Table decorations were autumn flowers in shades of pink. Parents of the children who are sent home are asked to consult their physician at once to learn if the child is ill. Parents are not to be alarmed, however, if their child is sent home, as there are many causes for rise in a child's temperature.

Pending final disposition Friday of a habeas corpus suit instituted by the mother, custody of Ruth Elizabeth Milburn, 5-year-old daughter of Mrs. Goldie Milburn, Covington, Ky., was restored temporarily to the mother by Probate Judge S. C. Wright Thursday.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE GREAT COMMANDMENT—Master, which is the great commandment in the law? Jesus said unto him, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets.—Matthew 22:36, 37, 38, 39, 40.

BREATHING SPELL

Again the correspondents "think" that the civil war that has kept China in a turmoil since last April is ended. They base this qualified conclusion on the fact that Chang Hsueh-liang has put to flight Generals Feng Yu-shiang and Yen Hsi-shan, who have been giving the Nanking Nationalists a run for their money all summer. Chang came down from Manchuria and attacked Yen and Feng in the rear. They are expected to flee abroad. The question is: Will they be back in the spring?

Warfare, civil or unceasing, always slows up in China at this time of year. The Chinese do not like to expose themselves to cold and wet. Anciently it was a rule of Chinese warfare to stop a battle as soon as it began to rain. This was due as much to the dislike of the Chinese to getting their skins wet, as to the effect of moisture on bowstrings. Winter is severe in the north. Already the melons have been gathered from the great plain of Chihli and the russet sea of kaoliang awaits the reaper. The weird moaning of pigeon whistles through the attenuated air of autumn warns of the approach of bitter weather, when the sand-laden winds from the Gobi desert will make life out of doors a torment. The Chinese pull down their ear-flaps and go into winter quarters.

When spring comes again, will she unlock another crop of reactionary pretenses? A good deal will depend on the extent to which northern Chinese conservatism has disintegrated under the Manchurian impact. The Nanking authorities are by no means entirely out of the woods yet. They still have the "communists," who have been welling up out of the south, to deal with. The exact terms they made with Chang Hsueh-liang, who is reported at one time to have demanded the abdication of Chiang Kai-shek, are not known. Chang is not likely to remain in Peking for two and a half centuries, as did the Manchus, who were invited in to settle a Chinese dispute in 1644; but he is in a position to give Nanking considerable trouble if he is minded to. Although the best wishes of other countries must go to the Nationalists, the seem best able eventually to bring order out of chaos in China, any idea that their path is strewn with roses is still premature.

The other day a member of the younger generation asked who Admiral Dewey was. Yet it seems scarcely more than yesterday since the admiral came home from Manila to be given superlative honors by the nation.

The increasing acidity of the prohibition debate makes it pertinent to inquire about just what happens when a superabundance of wet heat clashes with a superfluity of dry heat.

A writer in the "Nation's Business" warns against building cities around airports. Most big cities couldn't be built that way without paring them up and making them all over.

The Germans may have too many parties for the good of their country, but at least those parties have some real reason for existence beside the habit of continuation.

As we understand it, the dark ages were the ages in which the attitude toward sex and the general refinements of life, was about what it is getting to be today.

GOLF AGAIN

Girard, in Philadelphia Inquirer, asks the president of one of the biggest banks in the city: "Why are you not on the links this cool afternoon?"

"I'm off the links now and forever," replies the banker. And then he says: "There would be fewer men out of jobs today if more golf courses were deserted. I'm serious when I say that a whole lot of rather important men do not let business interfere with their golf, to the distinct detriment of business."

It is fair to assume that the big men in business, leaders, executives, have more brains than their lesser associates. Well then, wouldn't it be a good idea to let the little fellows play more golf and let the big fellows devote their brains to making economic conditions better for more people?

GIVING AWAY MONEY

Perhaps we don't know who to give away money? Says Dean Abbott, Chicago University expert on social welfare: "Too often public funds for charitable purposes represent a charitable impulse rather than a scientific understanding of social needs, and we go on mechanically appropriating funds without applying the scientific knowledge that is available for an evaluation of the results."

On the other hand some of us think giving is too mechanical, too systematized. Much of the old personal contact is lost in giving. Despite our sympathy and our soft-heartedness the expert, in this case, is right. Much money is wasted in unintelligent giving. The Community Chest method, with the amount of need arrived at after intelligent study, is the best way.

NO ANGELS HERE

Your boys and girls are back in school. Don't pass too much "buck" to the teacher. They are not going to send you home any angels and you mustn't expect it. The youngster is likely to travel in the direction in which you started him. How did you start him?

THE "CHURCH IN THE WILDOOD"

A pleasant letter from Ralph McCord, Monroeville, O., sets the column right on the Church in the Wildwood. It is at Nashua, Iowa. Letters on many things keep coming from the folks. And they are welcome.

HOW ABOUT THIS?

Is your work getting you places or is it just filling in your days? If you are sure you are in the wrong line, if you are sure you have powers you are not using, don't let anybody tell you to keep plugging along—and think he is giving you good advice. ## Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

PROCLAMATION: NEW YORK CITY, New York—Hank Mencken, the Year's Most Interesting Bridgroom, having been married nearly a month, breezed into town this week to cast a squint at the Boogie in its native health, and to make sure that none of those damned Philistines were putting anything over on him while his back was turned.

A few days before his marriage, in a newspaper interview, he said: "Now that I am selling myself, I think of another good quality, one that I consider important in any relation and particularly so in marriage. I am a polite man. I know that politeness is possible even between active enemies who see each other only occasionally, and I think it is one of the most important qualities for people who have to see each other all the time."

"I expect to be polite to my wife under any circumstances that may arise. I shall expect the same politeness from her, and if I don't get it, there will be hell to pay!"

BLUSH, YOU VIOLET!

"Politeness," said H. L., toying with a lump of cracked ice, "is the absence of the reformer complex—of any desire to improve other people. Let them alone. They are doing the best they can, poor fish, wishing they were in Heaven, and afraid to try to get there."

He turned and regarded his wife with an understanding smile. "It's all so easy for her," he said. "You see, she is married to a perfect man!"

GOOD LUCK!

If it's true, as Shaw says, that the ideal wife is the sort of woman who does everything the ideal husband likes, and nothing else, there doesn't seem to be any reason why Sara and Hank should not be very happy.

Prosperous journey to 'em both!

ROSE MARMALADE

(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe)

Four cups crab apple pulp, juice one lemon, three cups sugar, six rose geranium leaves. This is a delicious and fragrant marmalade for sandwiches or cake. Cut the crab apples in half and cook gently in enough water to just cover until soft. Put through a sieve and combine in the above proportion. Bruise the geranium leaves slightly, and cook slowly to the jellying stage. Remove the leaves and fill hot glass jars. Cool and seal.

"PROGRESSIVE-ISM SURVIVES" IS WISCONSIN'S PROCLAMATION AFTER LA FOLLETTE NOMINATION

WASHINGTON—Nationally considered, Wisconsin's vote, cast at Badger State's recent primaries for practical purposes the primaries are final in Wisconsin, for nearly all the Badger folk call themselves Republicans, although heaven knows there are two mighty different kinds of them, probably meant more, in more sorts of ways, than will be signified by the combined votes of any half dozen of other states, to be cast in November.

To be sure, various immediately pending issues doubtless will be more effectively tested, here and there, elsewhere. For example, the Illinois outcome promises to be illuminating as to the development of wet-and-dry sentiment—Illinois being a highly strategic wet-and-dry area. The New York result may settle a candidate or so's dish of 1932 presidential hash.

These things unquestionably are important.

Still, even presidential candidates come and go. Prohibition is not a complete platform, but only a plank; the dryest of dries is not a prohibitionist exclusively. The tariff itself, reverently as its devotees regard it, is not quite the sum total of the veriest "old Joe" Grundy's idea of an economic Utopia—not an entire program.

Progressive-ism, however, is a whole political philosophy. It is a somewhat loose and elastic one, with room in it for both Republicans and Democrats—and also undoubtedly for some of more radical views than the so-called "progressives".

Nevertheless, it serves to hold together American political liberals to gether.

As a philosophy, it is so closely identified with Wisconsin, as its original source, that it could hardly experience a serious setback there without suffering the gravest disorganization everywhere else that it has taken root.

Since the elder Senator Robert M. La Follette's death, it is true that the country's outstanding progressive has not been a Wisconsinian.

I think progressives generally will agree that the foremost individual progressive of today is Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska—not exactly their leader, but their recognized prophet.

Yet progressive-ism could stand Senator Norris' loss much better than Senator Norris, as a progressive, could stand Wisconsin's shift away from progressive-ism's banner. The senator is one though a giant. Progressive Wisconsin is a commonwealth.

The present generation of La Follettes are an interesting and remarkable family.

Without them to "carry on," Wisconsin progressives might have found themselves in a bad hole when the elder senator died. Badger State progressive-ism might have slumped. It did weaken momentarily. It might not have recovered—or not until after a long lapse, but for the availability of the younger La Follette.

But, with no wish to disparage the accomplishment of "young Bob" and his brother Phil (who are amply entitled to their laurels for the adequacy with which they proved themselves equal to the emergency), it seems to me that it was a case rather of Wisconsin progressive-ism taking advantage of the name of La Follette than of Bob and Phil seizing the opportunity to fasten the La Follette dynasty on Wisconsin.

And I am confident that the La Follettes would confirm this judgment.

To summarize, Wisconsin's primary vote appears to me to have been of capital importance, as the proclamation of an ideal's survival.

A skippy progressive majority perhaps would have implied merely that the ideal was dying hard and slowly, but there was a world of punch in the majority back of Badger progressive-ism's latest oath of allegiance to its principles.

If Maine's vote (because it is known ahead of the rest of the country's) can properly be regarded as nationally prophetic, why not Wisconsin's?

Peter's Adventures

By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent

ONLY A LITTLE WHITE BUNDLE

Peter decided to stand still, right where he was, and watch the busy ants work. So stand still he did. However, he was not in the least prepared for what happened. Like little whirlwinds the ants scurried to and fro choosing the larvae that were old enough to make themselves over, picking these up in their mouths and with them scuttling into the nursery across the corridor. As busy whiskered out of the doorway, little Larry in her mouth. Peter made up his mind that if he were to look on at the performance it was high time he followed the rest. The boy ran after Busy.

In the other nursery such a sight met his gaze that if Peter had not clapped his hand over his mouth he would have started right in to ask questions. And something told Peter that there was neither the time nor place to give rein to his curiosity.

Over in a corner were hundreds of white bundles. Some were large, some were small, some were in-between. Near one of the columns that helped to hold up the roof were the larvae the nurses had just brought in. Such antics as these queer little Antlets were now going through. What in the world were they doing anyhow? Peter strained his eyes to see. Each little Antlet was moving his head from side to side, as though in great pain. What two wrongs did the youngsters? Not in a short while Peter noticed it was spitting out silken threads. And by and by every little Antlet would itself up tight in the silken threads it had spun. Soon where many a larva had lain there was no larvae at all, only a little white bundle.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

By MRS. MARY MORTON

Lamb Chops Broiled
Baked Potatoes
Poys Salad
Creamed Cabbage
Baked Apples
Biscuits
Half the pleasure in a good meal comes from its looks and smell. One is more likely to digest a meal, too, if it looks pretty and has an appetizing odor. Hence we "dress up" our meals, as this salad is dressed, to look pretty as well as to taste good.

Today's Recipes
Poys Salad—Chop together four cups finely shredded cabbage, three carrots, few pieces of celery and half a sweet mango and mix with enough mayonnaise to moisten. Remove the pulp from six medium sized tomatoes and stuff firmly with the vegetable mixture. Now take a very sharp knife, and starting at the top of the tomatoes, split downward in one-inch widths. Place on crisp lettuce, bending every other division of the tomato flat on the lettuce. Top with additional salad dressing and serve at once. The pulp of the tomatoes may afterward be used for stewing or canning to avoid waste.

Suggestions
Bread and Butter Pickles—Eight quarts table size cucumbers, two quarts medium white onions, two quarts cider vinegar, two one-half pounds brown sugar, one-fourth pound stick cinnamon, one tablespoon whole allspice, one tablespoon turmeric, two and one-half tablespoons white mustard seed, two teaspoons pepper. Peel and slice cucumbers and onions and let stand overnight in a brine made of two cups salt to enough water to cover vegetables. In morning rinse and drain. The cinnamon and allspice in muslin bag, add to other pickling ingredients, and bring to boil. Add cucumbers and onions, bring just to a boil, pack and seal while hot.

Flower Hint
To be sure to save seed from the most beautiful colors of zinnia and petunia blossoms tie a white string around the plants while they are still in blossom. This can easily be seen when gathering the seed.

Canned Baked Apples
Bake sweet apples and, while still hot, put them into the can, then pour hot syrup over them. They keep beautifully, and, with cream, make an appetizing breakfast dish, or a nice dessert with whipped cream.

Covering Wool Blanket
When a wool blanket shows wear cover on one side with thin material, challis or thin silk. Allow this cover to fold over the edge three to five inches and baste down on the uncovered side. With a large stitch on sewing machine, or by hand, stitch all around the edge of the covering. Stitch corners—straight down the center, and half way between the center and the next row on either side of center.

By covering only one side the warmth of the wool is retained, with very little added weight.

Underfeeding Serious, Says Doctor

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Marasmus or malnutrition in infancy is one of the commonest of human diseases. Indeed it can hardly be called a disease, so many forms does it take, and so gradual are the changes between the different stages. From a baby not gaining at the proper rate or a little below normal in weight, to an inhuman looking skeleton like gnome, with the skin tightly drawn over its little bones, there is every conceivable transition form.

Dr. McKim Marriott, whom I have used as my guide in preparing the articles this week, gives five causes of malnutrition.

1. Underfeeding.
2. Infection.
3. Constitutional and congenital anomalies.
4. Poor Hygiene.
5. Overfeeding.

It is interesting and important to note the stress he puts on underfeeding. Four-fifths of these cases are due not, as is generally thought, to having the wrong kind of food, but simply to having too little.

This may even occur in breast fed children when the mother's milk is insufficient in amount or quality. But much more likely it is to occur in the bottle fed baby. The trouble is usually not so much in the actual amount of milk given as in not furnishing enough food elements to the ounce, or in other words, in giving the baby too dilute a mixture.

When this condition is found it is advisable to give the infant a properly concentrated formula and to keep on giving the same formula until good results begin to appear. The tendency is for the mother to get panicky and keep insisting on changing the formula. The desperate hope that the right one will somehow be hit upon. It often takes two or three weeks for good results to appear. For this reason if a good formula is fixed upon, containing all the necessary elements for nutrition, it is better to keep on with that formula. Constant changing is more likely to upset the baby than letting it stay on the same formula.

Infections of any kind upset the digestion and result in loss of weight. The infection may be in the middle ear, the throat or the bowel. For this reason proper examinations of the entire body are always indicated in the presence of undernourished states.

Constitutional conditions such as congenital heart disease may be responsible.

By poor hygiene is meant uncleanliness, crowded quarters, bad ventilation, overheated rooms, too little sunshine, etc., etc. The majority of these cases are found among the poor, the tenement dwellers. Naturally bad hygiene and underfeeding go hand in hand.

Overfeeding is less frequent a cause of malnutrition than was once supposed. Excess of some element in the food, such as fat, will cause digestive disturbances leading to loss of weight and vitality.

EDITORS NOTE: Dr. Clendenning cannot diagnose or give personal answers to letters from readers. Where questions are of general interest, however, they will be taken up, in order, in the daily column. Address your queries to Dr. Logan Clendenning, care of this paper. The tendency is for the mother to get panicky and keep (200 words.)

Try To Forget Former Boy Friend

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

ONE OF THE HARDEST things to bear in this world is the injustice of personality with which one is born.

There are people you know who have apparently no moral standards, who are absolutely unsatisfactory as business associates, friends or mates, and yet, by the attractiveness of their persons and manners everyone loves them.

There are others who are splendid characters, who are loyal and true, sincere, affectionate and self-sacrificing, who have such unattractive exteriors that few ever find out their virtues, and even if they do, they are not likely to love them. There seems little that can be done about it. You can't altogether change your face, appearance and manner, although you can, of course, make the best of your looks and cultivate your mind until you are interesting, at any rate to those who know you.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: In my own home town I grew up with a boy who meant everything to me. We loved each other and we do yet. But last year he married to hurt me, and he sure did it. He never would tell the truth.

"My friends have told me that his wife and he have separated once, but gone back together. They said he loves me and doesn't care what becomes of himself. He has gone to drinking and goes with other girls.

"After he married I never went with another boy. I never cared to. I just wouldn't go anywhere. My people blamed me for us not marrying, but it was not my fault. He wouldn't tell the truth. He was so jealous I thought if I gave him up for a while he would do better, but he just got married.

"Two months ago I met a boy who I think likes me very much. He is so different from Jack. He is all the time trying to please me. Do you think that he loves me? Sometimes I believe I love him, and again I think about Jack. I know I would be lonesome without him.

"I know that Jimmie would never tell me a lie. I want you to tell me what to do, and I sure will do it. Would you advise me to stop thinking about Jack and go with Jimmie for a change?

"BRIGHT EYES. I certainly would go with Jimmie for a while, Bright Eyes. If you find you can't love him and are convinced he loves you, it would not be fair to encourage him too much. But I rather think you are at the turning point of recovery in your love for Jack, who you must realize would not be a very desirable husband if he lies and if he would encourage a girl he did not love merely to spite you.

"I know that love has a nasty way of making character defects appear of little account in an attractive person, but just the same when one is married to one of these good looking scamps they often lose their charm, and good, solid virtues in homely people appear much more pleasing.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: Will you please print this in your column as a wise word to all the 'kissing boys' and 'unkissable girls'?"

"I am 17, good looking and as popular as any girl would want to be, and I have not allowed myself to be kissed or petted yet, and I have had dates ever since I was 15.

"Listen, girls, these males that claim to be able to kiss any girl in a certain length of time are just betting about what I grant 'ty' can do with 'just another girl.' If a nice girl demands respect she gets it, no matter what type of man takes her out. Because of a few thrills some girls have cheapened themselves, and of course it reflects on our sex.

"The fault probably lies in the fact that, due to the finished appearance that the liquid polish gives, you have discarded the practice of buffing your nails. The buffing of the nails should not be overlooked, as it contributes to both the health and beauty of the nails. Continued buffing will bring out the lovely lustre of the nails, and will also stimulate the circulation. Moreover, you should massage your nails nightly. A bit of warm olive oil massaged into the base of the nails will help to correct the dull, dry condition of which you write.

"DEAR MISS GLAD: For the past six months I have been using liquid polish on my nails. Previously, my nails had a lovely natural lustre. My mother insisted that the use of the liquid polish would destroy the natural gloss of my nails. I was rather dubious about her statement at the time. But my nails have now become dull and faded-looking. Is it really the fault of the liquid polish?

"WORRIED."

The fault probably lies in the fact that, due to the finished appearance that the liquid polish gives, you have discarded the practice of buffing your nails. The buffing of the nails should not be overlooked, as it contributes to both the health and beauty of the nails. Continued buffing will bring out the lovely lustre of the nails, and will also stimulate the circulation. Moreover, you should massage your nails nightly. EDITOR'S NOTE: While it is impossible for Miss Glad to answer beauty questions by mail, she will be happy to send you her pamphlets on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" if you will write, care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents in coin, for each, cover cost of printing and mailing. Personal questions on beauty will be answered through Miss Glad's daily column.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

The football season is again at hand and it has been this department's annual custom for the last few years to allow fans to predict the winners of the more important collegiate grid games scheduled every Saturday.

As it should be comparatively easy to pick a majority of winners at the start of the season because most of the games are "warm-up" affairs for the stronger teams, we will make a slight departure this fall and start the ball rolling ourselves.

Looking over the long list of scheduled contests, we have selected seventeen games as the basis for predictions—seventeen, you may be sure, regarding which it should be rather easy to guess the winning teams, the idea being to demonstrate how good we are at this "experting" business. Here are the predictions, for better or for worse:

Army to beat Boston U.
Penn State to beat Niagara.
Carnegie Tech to beat Buffalo.
Indiana to beat Miami.
Iowa to beat Bradley.
Michigan to beat Ypsilanti.
Case to beat Findlay.
Oberlin to beat Kenyon.
Ohio State to beat Mt. Union.
Ohio U. to beat Wilmington.
Ohio Wesleyan to beat Marshall.
Cincinnati to beat Cedarville.
New York U. to beat Hobart.
Pittsburgh to beat Waynesburg.
Temple to beat Thiel.
Yale to beat Maine.
Dartmouth to beat Norwich.

Many of the half a hundred Xenians who made the trip to Lexington, Ky., Wednesday to see Ray Henley, 2:08 race in the 2:13 pace with high class Grand Circuit pacers were somewhat disappointed when George Hagler's sensational juvenile, with a record of twenty-three straight heats won this year, failed to do better than finish fourth in each of the first two heats. A good bit of local money was also lost on the colt.

George, however, did not expect Ray Henley to win. There is some consolation in the fact the juvenile probably ran his fastest heats of the season. The time of the heat winners was 2:02 1/4 for the first two miles and 2:03 3/4 for the last mile, and Ray Henley's time was not more than a second or two slower, which is traveling some.

The Joe Hagler-driven horse drew a position in the second heat directly behind the pole horse in the first heat and was able to come in fourth. The local pacer, as a result, had a more favorable position in the second heat and set the pace for the entire field until the stretch when he was overtaken and beaten in a close finish in which the first four horses were bunched together.

Ray Henley will probably race again at Lexington sometime next week in the 2:13 classification for pacers.

Xenia Central High's thirty-piece band is to be outfitted soon in new blue and white uniforms, including single capes, caps and white trousers for boys and white skirts for the girl members of the organization. Attired in this regalia, the musicians will make an attractive appearance when they parade over the field at Buccaneer football games.

The new uniforms, fitting a long-felt want, are made possible through the generosity of the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs and a large number of Xenia business firms and individuals. The two civic clubs each contributed $100 toward the fund and $160 was raised when the business section was canvassed by members of the student council.

The next thing on the program will be the selection of drum major. There should be much competition for this enviable position because the drum major will be attired in a white double cape, special cap and will of course, wave a baton.

REPUBLICAN RALLY AT SPRINGFIELD IS DISCUSSED AT MEET

Plans for a campaign rally of Republicans of the Seventh Congressional District, embracing nine counties, to be held at Memorial Hall in Springfield, probably the night of October 24, were discussed by representatives of the county G. O. P. organizations in the district, who were guests of Congressman Charles Brand, Urbana, at a dinner and political gathering at his recently acquired Fountain Park country home Thursday night.

Governor Myers V. Cooper and a group of his political supporters were also present, among the guests being Lieut. Gov. John T. Brown.

Attorney L. T. Marshall, Xenia, former state senator and chairman of the Greene County Republican Executive Committee, and Harry M. Smith, Paintersville, commander of Joseph P. Foody Post, No. 95, American Legion, and secretary of the local Republican central committee, were the invited local guests at the dinner-meeting.

Two Republican political leaders from each of the nine counties in the district had been invited to attend and the entire group included nearly thirty visitors.

The public night meeting at Springfield, at which United States Senator Roscoe McCullough, Governor Cooper and other state candidates will be speakers, is expected to be the most important Republican rally of the campaign in this district.

Large delegations of Republicans are expected to attend from each county and the Memorial Hall seating capacity of about 3,500 is expected to be taxed beyond capacity. Local Republican leaders recalling that more than 5,000 persons were present at the big district rally held in the afternoon at Clifton two years ago when Vice-President Curtis addressed the assemblage.

A joint meeting of the local Republican central and executive committees is expected to be called within the next few days to formulate plans for the November election campaign, Attorney Marshall also discloses.

RUPTURE EXPERT HERE

E. J. Meinhardt, of Chicago, the well-known Rupture Shield Expert, will personally be at the Miami Hotel, Dayton, Ohio, on Wednesday only, October 1st, from 10:00 A. M. to 7:00 P. M.

Mr. Meinhardt is highly recommended by thousands of satisfied customers. Take advantage of this opportunity to see him as he will not visit any other city in this section at this time. There is no charge for consultation and demonstration. This Appliance is for men only.

Mr. Meinhardt says:

The "Meinhardt Rupture Shield" not only retains the rupture perfectly, but it also contracts the opening in ten days in the average case, regardless of the size or location of the rupture.

The "Meinhardt Rupture Shield" has no undertraps. It is perfectly sanitary, practically indestructible, and may be worn while bathing.

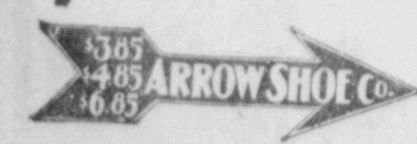

Rupture often causes Stomach Trouble, Backache, Constipation, Nervousness, and other ailments which promptly disappear after the Rupture is properly retained. Thousands of deaths occurring annually from strangulated rupture can be avoided.

SPECIAL NOTICE—All customers that I have fitted here during the last ten years are invited to call for inspection for which there will be no charge. (Come in and talk with these customers regarding their experience with my Appliance.)

Please note the above date and office hours carefully. (This visit is for white people only.)—E. J. Meinhardt, Home Office, 1551 N. Crawford Ave., Chicago. —Adv.

FRESHIES LIVE BY RULES

Wilberforce Upperclassmen Set Down Restrictions To Govern Yearlings

OH, for the life of a freshman! He toils not, and neither does he spin, but if he forgets the rules and regulations set down for his kind, woe unto him.

At least that's the case at Wilberforce University, where the freshman cabinet, composed of H. H. Carrothers, Edward Richie and Howard Daniels, has prepared a list of "don'ts" for freshmen that keeps the yearling from ever forgetting his place on the campus.

The familiar green cap must be worn at all times, the freshman must not smoke, and he can't wear a mustache, a derby hat or carry a cane until he becomes a senior. The cabinet says so and here are the rest of the rules:

1. Must not smoke.
2. Must not walk on the sidewalk but must always walk in the road.
3. Must not drag or be seen in public with any lady until after the Thanksgiving Day football game.
4. Must not loiter around the stores or restaurants on the campus.
5. Must not be sweats (campus loafers).
6. Must not loaf in front of any dormitory.
7. Must wear green caps.
8. Must be in the dormitory at 10 o'clock.
9. Must attend and sit together at all athletic contests on the campus.

campus.

11. Must know the school traditions, the alma mater and the cheers, and have their own cheer leader.
12. Must perform all reasonable duties asked by upper classmen.
13. Must attend all required exercises.
14. Must wear black ties and keep their coats buttoned.
15. Must use at all times either the back or side doors of Emory and O'Neil Halls.
16. All students when covered shall recognize professors and ladies by touching their caps with the hand.
17. Seniors are the only men on the campus to wear the coveted mustache, derby or possess a cane.

LEISERSON NAMED ON OHIO COMMITTEE

William M. Leiserson, professor of economics at Antioch College, has been named a member of a state committee on stabilization of industry and employment, appointed Thursday by Governor Cooper.

This committee has been invited to confer with the governor at Columbus early next month. The governor requested the committee to serve as an advisory committee to the department of Industrial relations. It, also, will co-operate with local committees throughout the state in promoting plans for improving employment conditions and for reducing involuntary idleness.

Members of the committee will give consideration, too, to a number of proposals which are designed to stabilize employment and reduce idleness.

Now I always keep a jar on hand, and am glad to pass along a good word for Resinol."

WHAT IS WORSHIP?

Worship is a thirsty land being watered from above; it is a candle in the act of being lighted; it is a soul standing silent before the mysteries; it is food and drink for all who hunger and thirst after righteousness; it is a man climbing the altar stairs to God.

It is a joyous moment of communion with the divine; it is an age-trodden pathway to one's own soul; it is a little journey to the uplands of life.

We begin our study of this quarter's lesson with two worthy characters who represent the humble people that were spiritual bone and sinew of Judaism.

V. 5. "There was in the days of Herod, king of Judea, a certain priest named Zacharias, of the course of Abiah; and he had a wife of the daughters of Aaron; and her name was Elizabeth."

V. 6. "And they were both righteous before God, walking in all the commandments and ordinances of the Lord blameless." They had both the inner spirit and the outer form of godliness.

Now Elizabeth's time was fulfilled that she should be delivered; and she brought forth a son. And her neighbors and her kinsfolk heard that the Lord had magnified his mercy towards her; and they rejoiced with her. A new life brought a new home for the future. God places a special premium on childhood. Christ was a child and he especially favored children.

Vs. 59, 60. And it came to pass on the eighth day they came to circumcise the child; and they would have called him Zacharias, after the name of his father. And his mother said, not so, but he shall be called John. Names were significant with the Hebrews; there are good evidences that God had revealed to Zacharias among other things that the child should be called John which means a gift of God, and he had written out the name that his wife might know it; when he was asked what the child's name should be on that date, he wrote it on a tablet.

V. 64. "And his mouth was opened immediately and his tongue loosed, and he spake blessing God." Because Zacharias did not believe the announcement of the birth of a son by an angel when he performed his priestly duties, he was dumb until the birth of the child.

Vs. 65, 66. "And fear came on all they that dwell round about them; and all these sayings were noised abroad throughout all the hill country of Judea. And all that heard them laid them up in their heart, saying what shall this child be?" Such divine favor as seen accompanying the birth of this child was destined to play some important part in life. It is commendable that parents have high ambitions for their children.

V. 76. "Yea and thou shalt be called the prophet of the Most High; for thou shalt go before the face of the Lord to make ready his ways." Zacharias uttered these words as a prophet; they are called the Benedictus. The child was later known as John the Baptist, the forerunner of Christ.

V. 77. "To give knowledge of salvation unto his people in the remission of their sins." John the Baptist preached remission of sins with such effect that great multitudes followed him.

Vs. 78, 79. "Because of the tender mercy of our God, whereby the dayspring from on high shall visit us, to shine upon them that sit in darkness and the shadow of death; to guide our feet into the way of peace." Men had lost sight of true salvation and yet God was merciful and would give them another chance; the dayspring is Christ who gave light and offered grace and strength to all who would receive him.

V. 80. "And the child grew and waxed strong in spirit and was in the desert till the day of his showing unto Israel." John's boyhood days were like those of Christ, only he dwelt in the desert, a wilderness which stretched east from the Dead Sea. This child was not only educated but developed a religious life as indicated in the phrase "waxed a strong spirit." Emphasis must always be placed on Christian education.

"This fellow came down from Oregon in the middle of the summer, before the first term started. He wanted to enter the university but was deficient in entrance credits. He had no money, so we helped him find a job. He drove a buggy and looked after the cow at a girls' school near the campus and accepted his remuneration in tutoring."

"He made progress in everything but English composition, which was the only requirement we made applicable to every student who entered, but we decided to admit him anyway, on his prospects."

"I assigned him to a room in the men's dormitory, the very first one I gave out. He studied geology and developed a genius for organization in student affairs. When he came up for graduation as a mining engineer he was still deficient in certain minor technicalities of English composition, though he had presented several excellent papers on geology. However as he has no greater responsibility and no higher position, he is making pure and sweet and the home life of the American people."

Lesson Prayer, "Give us a right conception of the trust of childhood; help us to make the best possible contribution to our home life; may the best of our lives be perpetuated in others, especially in our children."

BOOK REVIEW
"The Religion of John Burroughs," by Osborne. Houghton Mifflin Co., traces the growth and development of Burroughs' beliefs from boyhood to maturity and discusses his views on Jesus, the church, the Bible, theology and religion.

"Wholesome Childhood," by Groves, Houghton Mifflin Co., offers guidance in the practical application of child psychology and presents briefly and concisely methods of developing to the utmost the child's potentialities.

MAKING GOOD POINTS COUNT
"I have learned that it pays to look up a man's good points. My experience with the first student I admitted to Stanford bears me out in that," said David Starr Jordan, chancellor emeritus, in a recent issue of the American Magazine.

"The Seventh Day Adventists require their members to give a tithe for religious purposes. With a membership of 112,274 they gave last year for foreign missions, $2,839,674.00 an average of 48.4c per week for each individual. In the past ten years they have raised $24,708,835.69, an average of $24.13 per year for each member."

The Most Rev. Stanislaus Gillet, master general of the order of preachers has been named a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor of France by appointment of President Doumergue. It was recently announced. Father Gillet, the 75th successor to St. Dominic as head of the order established in 1215, served as a chaplain in the French army during the World War. He is widely known in France as a pulpit orator. Father Gillet plans to visit the United States this fall and deliver a limited number of lectures while on tour.

Church Forum
What should be the chief objective of the week day church school?

The chief objective should be the leading of the pupils to an intelligent faith in Jesus and in an open confession of Him and in the dedication of a trained and obedient life to His service. The evangelistic value properly related to Christian education.

Should members of a training class meeting at the Sunday School hour be called upon to fill vacancies in the teaching staff?

Practice work is an important part of teacher training and opportunity should be provided for it, but calling upon a member to teach without adequate preparation should not be permitted. Make practice teaching continuous for a brief time, and the training class kept intact until a course is completed.

FRESHIES LIVE BY RULES

Wilberforce Upperclassmen Set Down Restrictions To Govern Yearlings

Oh, for the life of a freshman! He toils not, and neither does he spin, but if he forgets the rules and regulations set down for his kind, woe unto him.

At least that's the case at Wilberforce University, where the freshman cabinet, composed of H. H. Carrothers, Edward Richie and Howard Daniels, has prepared a list of "don'ts" for freshmen that keeps the yearling from ever forgetting his place on the campus.

The familiar green cap must be worn at all times, the freshie must not smoke, and he can't wear a mustache, a derby hat or carry a cane until he becomes a senior. The cabinet says so and here are the rest of the rules:

1. Must not smoke.
2. Must not walk on the sidewalks but must always walk in the road.
3. Must not drag or be seen in public with any lady until after the Thanksgiving Day football game.
4. Must not loiter around the stores or restaurants on the campus.
5. Must not be seen in front of any dormitory.
6. Must wear green caps.
7. Must be in the dormitory at 10 o'clock.
8. Must attend and sit together at all athletic contests on the campus.
9. Must know the school traditions, the alma mater and the cheers, and have their own cheer leader.
10. Must perform all reasonable duties asked by upper classmen.
11. Must attend all required exercises.
12. Must wear black ties and keep their coats buttoned.
13. Must use at all times either the back or side doors of Emory and O'Neil Halls.
14. All students when covered shall recognize professors and ladies by touching their caps with the hand.
15. Seniors are the only men on the campus to wear the coveted mustache, derby or possess a cane.

WHAT IS WORSHIP?

Worship is a thirsty land being watered from above; it is a candle in the act of being lighted; it is a soul standing silent before the mysteries; it is food and drink for all who hunger and thirst after right eousness; it is a man climbing the altar stairs to God.

It is a joyous moment of communion with the divine; it is an age-trodden pathway to one's own soul; it is a little journey to the uplands of life.

We begin our study of this quarter's lesson with two worthy characters who represent the humble people that were spiritual bone and sinew of Judaism.

V. 5, "There was in the days of Herod, king of Judaea, a certain priest named Zacharias, of the course of Abiah; and he had a wife of the daughters of Aaron; and her name was Elizabeth." These two were well born; they considered home a sacred institution; they lived harmoniously together and wanted that their home should be a blessing to others.

V. 6, "And they were both righteous before God, walking in all the commandments and ordinances of the Lord blameless." They had both the inner spirit and the outer form of godliness; the time was fulfilled that she should be delivered; and she brought forth a son. And her neighbors and her kinsfolk heard that the Lord had magnified his mercy towards her; and they rejoiced with her. A new life brought a new home for the future. God places a special premium on childhood. Christ was a child and he especially favored children.

Vs. 59, 60. And it came to pass on the eighth day they came to circumcise the child; and they would have called him Zacharias, after the name of his father. And his mother said, not so, but he shall be called John. Names were significant with the Hebrews; there are good evidences that God had revealed to Zacharias among other things that the child should be called John which means a gift of God, and he had written out the name that his wife might know it; when he was asked what the child's name should be on that date, he wrote it on a tablet.

V. 64, "And his mouth was opened immediately and his tongue loosed and he spake blessing God." Because Zacharias did not believe the announcement of the birth of a son by an angel when he performed his priestly duties, he was dumb until the birth of the child.

Vs. 65, 66, "And fear came on all they that dwell round about them; and all these sayings were noised abroad throughout all the hill country of Judaea. And all that heard them laid them up in their heart, saying what, then shall this child be?" Such divine favor as seen accompanying the birth of this child was destined to play some important part in life. It is commendable that parents have high ambitions for their children.

V. 76, "Yea and thou shalt be called the prophet of the Most High; for thou shalt go before the face of the Lord to make ready his ways." Zacharias uttered these words as a prophet; they are called the Benedictus. The child was later known as John the Baptist, the forerunner of Christ.

V. 77, "To give knowledge of salvation unto his people in the remission of their sins." John the Baptist preached remission of sins with such effect that great multitudes followed him.

Vs. 78, 79, "Because of the tender mercy of our God, whereby the day spring from on high shall visit us, to shine upon them that sit in darkness and the shadow of death; to guide our feet into the way of peace." Men had lost sight of true salvation and yet God was merciful and would give them another chance; the day spring is Christ who gave light and offered grace and strength to all who would receive him.

V. 80, "And the child grew and waxed strong in spirit and was in the desert till the day of his showing unto Israel." John's boyhood days were like those of Christ, only he dwelt in the desert, a wilderness which stretched east from the Dead Sea. This child was not only educated but developed a religious life as indicated in the phrase "waxed a strong spirit." Emphasis must always be placed on Christian education.

1. We cannot choose our ancestry; what are some of the advantages of this?

2. Why was Zacharias dumb for a period of time? What is significant about his dumbness?

3. What was the highest hope of Zacharias and Elizabeth? Why?

4. What is the responsibility of parents to their children? When does that responsibility end?

5. What evidences are there that the American home is improving? What evidences are there that it is degenerating?

Theodore Roosevelt declared that the stability of everything worthwhile in this country depended upon the home and that the minister has no greater responsibility and no higher privilege than making pure and sweet and happy the home life of the American people.

Lesson Prayer, "Give us a right conception of the trust of childhood; help us to make the best possible contribution to our home life; may the best of our lives be perpetuated in others, especially in our children."

"The Religion of John Burroughs," by Osborne, Houghton Mifflin Co., traces the growth and development of Burroughs' beliefs from boyhood to maturity and discusses his views on Jesus, the church, the Bible, theology and religion.

"Wholesome Childhood," by Groves, Houghton Mifflin Co., offers guidance in the practical application of child psychology and presents briefly and concisely methods of developing to the utmost the child's potentialities.

MAKING GOOD POINTS COUNT "I have learned that it pays to look up a man's good points. My experience with the first student I admitted to Stanford bears me out in that," said David Starr Jordan, chancellor emeritus, in a recent issue of the American Magazine.

"This fellow came down from Oregon in the middle of the summer, before the first term started. He wanted to enter the university but was deficient in entrance credits. He had no money, so we helped him find a job. He drove a buggy and looked after the cow at a girls' school near the campus and accepted his remuneration in tutoring.

"He made progress in everything but English composition, which was the only requirement we made applicable to every student who entered, but we decided to admit him anyway, on his prospects.

"I assigned him to a room in the men's dormitory, the very first one I gave out. He studied geology and developed a genius for organization in student affairs. When he came up for graduation as a mining engineer he was still deficient in certain minor technicalities of English composition, though he had presented several excellent papers on geology. However as he

What should be the chief objective of the week day church school?

The chief objective should be the leading of the pupils to an intelligent faith in Jesus and in an open confession of Him and in the dedication of a trained and obedient life to His service. It is ethical and cultural value in such a school, there must be an evangelistic value properly related to Christian education.

Should members of a training class meeting at the Sunday School hour be called upon to fill vacancies in the teaching staff?

Practice work is an important part of teacher training and opportunity should be provided for it, but calling upon a member to teach without adequate preparation should not be permitted. Make practice teaching continuous for a brief time, and the training class kept intact until a course is completed.

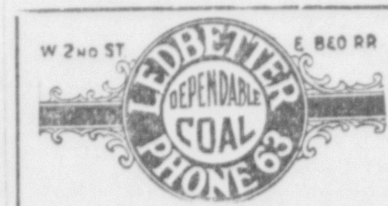

Dr. Theodore G. Soares, professor of religious education and head of the department of practical theology in the Divinity School of the University of Chicago, is retiring to become professor of ethics in the California Institute of Technology and pastor of the Pasadena Union Church.

"When the whistle of the Frank D. James Industrial school at Elat, West Africa, blows at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, some 20 men come to a Bible class where they remain until seven o'clock learning how to become Bible teachers.

Since the Gideons were formed 991,010 Bibles have been placed in hotels in the United States to the end of December last year and 59,843 in Canada, making a total of 1,050,853; in other countries 6,678 Bibles have been placed. It is interesting to note that the Canadian Gideons have offered to place Bibles in the hotels of India as they have already done in Pekin, China and Jerusalem.

The Seventh Day Adventists require their members to give a fifth membership of 112,276 they gave last year for foreign missions, $2,839,674.09 an average of 48.6c per week for each individual. In the past ten years they have raised $24,708,835.09, an average of $24.13 per year for each member.

Bryant Motor Sales

Xenia, Ohio

SUBSTANTIAL RATE REDUCTION OFFERS DAYTON SCALE HERE

25 per cent to local domestic consumers, it is estimated. Company officials stated that this was their best and final offer and considered it very fair in view of the fact Xenia's old residential lighting rate was 9 1/2 cents per month straight without the graduating scale.

In the proposed new commercial rates, the demand method of charging is eliminated and a "block" rate substantiated in which the company would charge 5 cents a kilowatt hour for the first fifty hours, 5 cents a kilowatt hour for the next 950 hours and 4 cents a kilowatt hour for excess current used. The present rate is 8 cents for the first thirty hours demand, 6 3/4 cents for the next 100 hours demand and 4 1/4 cents for current used in excess of 130 hours demand. The reduction in the commercial rates also ranges from 9 to 25 per cent, it was declared.

Bids were also opened and contracts awarded by the commission for constructing curb and gutter and a storm sewer on Maple St. and curb and gutter on California St.

Mullen and Cultice, local contracting firm, was awarded the contract for the Maple St. project, which includes 754 lineal feet of curb and gutter, 175 feet of twelve-inch sewer tile and a catch basin. The winning bid, lowest of six received, was $779.59, ninety-one cents under the next lowest bid.

Contract for the California St. improvement, which includes 1,290 feet of curb and gutter and storm sewer connections, was awarded to Samuel Lloyd, local contractor, on his bid of $814, lowest of six considered.

Four bids were considered for the purchase of a new police car equipped with a bullet-proof windshield for the police department, and commission authorized the purchase of a Ford touring car from The Bryant Motor Sales. The purchase price is $532, including a ditch light and a siren, and a trade-in of two obsolete Ford cars which the police force has been using. A commission referred to City Manager M. C. Smith a petition submitted by Harry Derrick asking that the city solicitor be instructed to prepare an ordinance making it unlawful to park vehicles on both sides of certain narrow streets in the city, and requesting that signs be posted to designate on which side of the streets in question it is not permissible to park.

The streets named in the petition were Whiteman and Collier Sts., King St., from Third to Church Sts., and Galloway St. from Third to Church Sts. Mr. Derrick pointed out these streets are narrow and parking on both sides is exceedingly dangerous, especially in the case of a fire in the neighborhood.

The Theater

Harrison Carroll's statement that the comparative absence of color films will be one of the biggest upsets on next year's motion picture program, is a startling commentary. A check-up, Carroll says, of the major Hollywood studios reveals that not a single company is planning at this time to make a feature-length picture in color. Considering last year's rush this is an extraordinary reversal of policy.

Several reasons for the change are given by producers. In the first place, they declare, the public has complained of eye strain. No doubt the great increase in production expense, sometimes 50 per cent, also enters into the question. The length of time necessary to make color prints is another item, taking months in the case of some pictures.

Still another reason is the uncertainty of color. Rushes of pictures frequently look well, but the finished prints were murky. A specific instance is that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is making Lawrence Tibbett's "The New Moon" in black and white and Pathe has abandoned the idea of filming "The Painted Desert" in color. There will be, however, a few color pictures. Mack Sennett is making comedies with his own process, Fox is experimenting with another and Howard Hughes is backing another. Technicolor, so far, has had the lead.

Photoplay Magazine picked the following six pictures as the best you'll see this month: "Abraham Lincoln," "Monte Carlo," "Moby Dick," "Whoopie," "The Office Wife" and "Madam Satan."

The best individual performances in current releases, the critics say, are: Walter Huston, Kay Hammond and Una Merkle in "Abraham Lincoln"; Eddie Cantor in "Whoopie"; Jeanette MacDonald in "Monte Carlo" and in "The Lottery Bride"; Jack Buchanan in "Monte Carlo"; Dorothy Mackaill in "The Office Wife"; John Barrymore in "Moby Dick"; Kay Johnson and Reginald Denny in "Madam Satan"; Ruth Chatterton in "Anybody's Woman"; Lew Cody in "What a Widow!"; and Buster Keaton in "Dough Boys."

CHAPTER 55

No water which ever flowed in a river or surged in an ocean has power to lighten Kitty. Her heart beat rapidly, not in fear for herself, but for her friends. The explosion had been so sudden, so overwhelming that they had so little time to prepare, it was inevitable many would be drowned. Her first thought was to get rid of as many confining clothes as possible. Her coat was half off as she struck the water; she left it ten feet under. To wriggle out of her dress was but a moment's work; Kitty came to the surface in her underclothing.

A terrible scene met her eyes—heads bobbing everywhere; cries filling the air. Two life boats floated a little distance away, dozens clinging to their gunwales. Of Kalyso nothing was to be seen!

A head appeared by her side; automatically, she reached for it and pulled it out of the water. It was Edith; unconscious.

"She can't have drowned so soon!" thought Kitty. She slipped behind her, curled a hand around to grasp a wrist and floated the unconscious woman lying with her back against Kitty's breast. Kitty held her head high enough to allow her to breathe.

"We'll be rescued, of course," thought Kitty. "There must be plenty of boats nearby." She raised herself with a kick and a strong free arm stroke and took a hasty look around. A brisk breeze was blowing and apparently, a strong tide running. Heads and boats separating! Kitty saw two tug boats racing to the scene. The discordant notes of half a dozen shrieking whistles told her that their plight had been discovered by many vessels.

Trying to keep afloat with the woman in her arms, she thought "maybe I can save some one else!"

She grasped an empty life preserver floating by, adjusted it with some difficulty under the head of the unconscious girl, then swam toward one of the overturned boats, pulling her salvage with her.

It was slow work. She had to support Edith's loiling head with one hand, while she swam with the other. But she kept steadily at it.

It seemed long but could not have been more than five minutes before she reached the overturned boat to be greeted with a hoarse cry from Altee: "Good girl, Kitty!"

And with an inward sob of thankfulness, she saw Gordon also clung to a boat.

"Take her!" she gasped.

"Where's Sally, Baby?"

Kitty did not wait to hear. Feeble cries sounded beyond the boat. She ploughed through the water at racing speed, grabbed a small blond head as it disappeared under the water and labored back to the boat. She tried to turn Baby over to Platt.

"Id help—but—arm is broken!" he gasped.

Kitty nodded. All that had happened was as if it had not been. Her man—of course he would help if he could! Arm broken! "Sure you are all right?" she asked.

"Yes—do your best—there, there!" He nodded a gesture. Kitty flung herself through the water toward the cry which Gordon had located.

It was Sally—Sally who couldn't swim, but who could float a little—

"I'm coming, I'm coming!" cried Kitty, gasping for breath. Then she loved the big girl again, for her first words were a spatter.

"Where's Baby, Oh, Kitty, find Baby!"

"She's safe—here, I'll take you to her! Sink down, Sally! I can't hold you up and pull you, too!" "It would have been funny if it were not tragic—little Kitty towing this big woman through the water like a tug towing an ocean liner. "What has happened to the rest?" she thought. "Only an hour ago Joe promised her an ocean liner for a wedding gift!"

She towed Sally to the boat and saw her safe—safe too, the look on her face as she visioned Baby, clinging to the boat with Altee. Why didn't Altee help? Maybe he was hurt, too—

No time now to think! She had only a few precious minutes left, and still there were cries for help—

Kitty had the busiest five minutes of her life. Before the first tug came up she had pushed and pulled two other helpless and sinking victims to the boat and was just grasping for the third when a boat hook came over her shoulder and skillfully hooked into the collar of the man for whom she reached. A hand grasped for her but only tore her clothing.

From the tug thumping her side boat to be greeted with a hoarse cry from Altee: "Good girl, Kitty!"

She put her into it, and with a yank he had her on deck. But she didn't stay there. Seeing another head some twenty feet away, she eluded his grasped, ran to the rail and in a clean flat dive was over again; then hand over hand to the head—but there was no head.

"I will get him!" she cried to herself, then reversed and dove—the hardest of all dives to make, that from the surface of the water—down, down, swimming strongly. Her head brushed something. She grabbed, felt resistance, and turned to struggle blindly up to the surface.

She broke water with a gasp; breath and strength alike were almost gone. She had a head by the hair; she shifted to limp collar and turned to the tug. It seemed very far away—"Oh, all of thirty miles, I mean feet!" cried Kitty feebly to herself. "Thirty feet—"

She swam, feebly now, but desparately. Could she make it? Had she the strength? Must they both drown together—

Suddenly a face appeared above the water, and one eye opened. Almost she laughed, its expression was so owl-like. She knew that eye!

"I will save him!" she thought. "He saved me, so often—and he's so little—that coat—so big—" She had neither the time nor the strength to try to rid Bert Croymen of his great coat. Her senses all but gone, strong arms weak now, paddling feebly, but still with iron determination holding up the loiling head of the man who had twice rescued her, Kitty fought gamely for life and safety. She almost reached the tug but not quite. With one last despairing cry, Kitty gave up the struggle, her hold on Bert's collar relaxed, and Kitty drifted away into a land where all men were Gordon Platts, all the Gords.

dons her lover, where there was no pain nor danger, nor cold water nor helpless cries of fright and despair.

It wasn't right to treat a girl that way! She hadn't done anything to be so manhandled! People were always rough-housing her. Was she kidnapped again? She was very uncomfortable! And why should her face alternately approach and recede from very dirty boards?

"Don't—don't!" cried Kitty, gasping. Then she was very sick indeed, and even more resentful at being rolled over a barrel, first her nose and then her feet hitting the deck, as rough but tender hands beat her on the back and punched and pummeled her into life and protest.

Some one gave a cry of delight. Kitty was suddenly conscious of the fact that she was off the barrel—and in some one's arms. She looked up, leadenly. Some one's face was close to hers. Some one looked wildly into her eyes. Then some one's arm lifted her and carried her and some one's tender voice crooned love and disjuncted broken grief into her ear, grief and gratitude and adoration, all mingled.

It looked like Gordon. It sounded like Gordon. But of course that couldn't be. Gordon was—Kitty closed her eyes. It didn't matter. She wanted to rest—to sleep—to dream—

It must have been a happy dream, for she smiled in the unconsciousness which mercifully took her from pain and exhaustion. Perhaps it was happy because she dreamed that the face which looked like Gordon's had kissed her—on the lips.
